

Jean C. Bradford, born January 1, 1924 in New York, N.Y. Married to Dr. Spencer G. Bradford on February 12, 1944. Active in the Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine Auxiliary for many years; she also was active as a Den Mother for Cub Scouts, PTA, Roxborough Chorus, various choirs of the churches she attended. A gentle loving mother, grandmother, great-grandmother, and great-great-grandmother, her family was her treasure. She loved to sing and play her auto-harp along with family and friends. She wrote poetry and was a published member of the American Poets Society. Active and supportive of the churches she belonged to, she helped with teaching Sunday School and Vacation Bible School. Her strong faith continued to under-gird and support her through the last few difficult years of medical challenges, and radiated to others around her, both patients and care-givers alike. She will be greatly missed by her family of five surviving children, 6 surviving grandchildren, 8 great-grandchildren, 3 great-great-granddaughters, and her many friends.
